in it. So just head through the next door. Have her take our (ugh!) intestines, and you'll get a Twisted Ring for the experience. The moral dilemma concerning the 2 choices above is central to the quest's theme. You emerge near a portal at the SW. You can either pay him 100 coppers for a glass bead that activates the exit portal, or kill him for it. Jarym's tent is just south of Mebbeth's place. The dump is just to the SW of the tavern. 4. Talk to Norochj for Emoric, and do what Norochj asks of you - Quest 6. Once you open the door, a portal appears. Arlo's flophouse is located just to the west of the gate leading to the NE region. 8. Find a way to erase Merriman's memory - 12000 XP and Dolora's Keys, and be sure to read Strahan's Diary for a laugh! The Guardian Spirit rewards you with some XP as soon as you leave the slain Strahan's chamber, but be sure to return to Norochj to collect your reward for completing Quest 2. It's at the far eastern side of the Festhall. Speak with Hargrimm, and ask him if there are any tasks you could perform that would convince him of your loyalty, in order that you may be allowed to leave this place. He's the man dressed in red in one of the northern rooms of the Festhall (if you've managed to piss off Penn and can't get into his Print Shop anymore, you can get a Love Letter from the locked dresser in Yves' room in the Brothel, located at 5 o'clock on the map). Directions are given assuming that the top of your screen is north, and the longer direction names are abbreviated, like SW for southwest. When you return to Malmaner and tell him this, he'll pay you back the 30 coppers and ask you to fetch a different costume. Also, she's as good looking as TNO is ugly, thus providing some balance to the party's appearance :) Grace also possesses a very high Lore skill, and can identify quite a few items without having to resort to Identify spell or Charm of Infinite Recall. Now head south again one more time. You should get 1000 XP for recalling a memory of how you can raise the dead (plus, it now becomes one of your Special Abilities). To do this, click on the party member you want to use, then hold down the shift key and click on the creature you want them to attack. It alludes to there being a trigger plate somewhere in here that opens up the last door to the "inner sanctum". Go through the portal at 4 o'clock on the map, then head back to that same portal without going through any other portal. If you can pickpocket Phineas, his key opens the locked cellar door. You only have room to wear 3 tattoos on your person, so choose wisely. Once it's in your possession, this book will talk to you! If you spill a drop of blood on it for openers, you'll learn the spell 'Blindness'. Now... This is more interesting. 5. Talk to Mar about the box - 1250 XP and 500 coppers, plus Hollow Axe! Finally, things come full circle with this seemingly interminable Moridor's box quest! Mar has moved from his original position to the south of Arlo's flophouse, and is now hiding in the stone arbour to the NW of the flophouse. Finally, if you can't absorb the Practical Incarnation, then you'll just have to beat the crap out of him, won't you? See Clerk's Ward above. OK, it's off to Vriscchika's once more. 9. Release Dimtree from his zombie condition - 8000 XP. He'll have nothing to do with the box, runs screaming from the warehouse, but suggests that you take the box to "Brasken" in the SW region of the Hive. If this quest was your ticket out of the Dead Nations (i.e., you didn't see the Silent King), Hargrimm agrees to petition the Silent King on your behalf, and you get an additional 7500 XP. He's standing there beyond the portal in the next room, and you can get him to join your party. When you go through this portal the second time, you wind up at the portal at 7 o'clock. He sends you to Dallan for the next part of the Key. He finally backs down, and you can either have him arrested, or allow him to flee, depending on your Lawful/Chaotic tendencies. Quests 1. Find key and sneak out of Tenement - 1000 XP plus Adder's Tear. Fight your way south through some creatures you haven't seen yet, and you come upon an extremely large skeleton (by the way, I noticed at this point that Nordom can detect portals, even when they're not open yet! Very useful indeed), but this brought an end to the game (you sit in darkness and silence forever?) Anyway, if you promise not to tell anyone the truth about the Silent King, Hargrimm will agree to let you take your leave of the Dead Nations, and you get 7500 XP for this. Of course, when you then speak to Grace... She's a Thief, and the only weapons she can use are Punch Daggers. Nabat is standing near the wall, a bit to the south of Kitla. I thereby missed one of the better PC's in the game - Vhailor. If there was ever a compelling reason to get into the siege tower, this is it! Talk to Lazlo in the Marketplace. After you get the necklace back, Porphiron will train you in all weapon categories (amount of proficiency attainable subject to the level you have attained as a Fighter). However, if Vhailor is with you, he strikes Trias down and there's nothing you can do about it except stand there and watch! Oddly enough, you can still complete the game now (I suppose because you didn't have any choice in the matter?) If Trias is killed you can get "Celestial Fire" off his body, not to mention the Scroll of Celestial Host! Anyway, no matter how it turns out, you've just completed the Outlands Quest 1, for 375000 XP, except the biggest, baddest sucker you're going to meet in the whole game! Over to the west is the fiend from Moridor's box (that is, if you didn't release him the first time, when he was a more benign fiend). Quell then opens up a bit (8000 XP and you get Quest 12), and reluctantly tells you that a piece of Ravel is the key to the door you seek (you can also buy magical chocolates from Quell, the most useful of which is a Stinky Chocolate that invokes 'Cloudkill' for only 350 coppers). Use the Note, and fold the corners in this order: upper right, lower right, upper left, upper right again (marks corresponding to the number of this zombie). Must be the Great Foundry. Chad, or what's left of him, is lying just outside the entrance to the Dead Nations, on the west side of the Catacombs. Talk to the Gate Heads (there is a portal there). Hatred's Gift Outlands, Fhjull Forked-Tongue Damage: 3-13 Slashing Enchanted: +1 Special: Berserk when used THACO: +1 Speed: 7 Weight: 7 Proficiency: Axes Not usable by Good characters Not a very useful weapon, because the item is cursed. Best leave Morte behind while you talk to the Pillar. You gain a permanent +1 to WIS. This gang hangs out in the SE region of the Hive. Once you've completed all the quests for Mebbeth, you get 2000 XP for committing to be a Mage, plus another 5000 XP after you listen to all her instructions. By the way, this is your journal, so you've just completed The Mortuary, Quest 2! TNO was relying on the fact that he could kill himself repeatedly in order to move from room to room - a feat no one else could possibly accomplish - to protect his journal from the rest of the multiverse. Talk to Skatch, their leader. Then, the mage Lothar appears, and wants you to find a skull to replace Morte with (see Quest 2). You get here from the Lower Ward, as a result of Quest 5 there (Note: you can also gain entry to the Foundry via an item you obtain in the Clerk's Ward, Quest 10...). Go talk to Sebastian the Mage again, a Severed Arm! When you get a chance later on, take it to Fell's tattoo studio, a killer jim-lim?! It slaughters all the mages, leaving you to round up the spoils. Remember that you split any XP gained amongst all the members of your party. Handy. Allow him to take a bite of you(!) in exchange for the finger bone hanging from his neck. Then, if your INT is high enough (use the kassegs if it isn't around the 20 mark yet), you can trick the Practical Incarnation into letting you absorb him (let him think you're going to allow him to absorb you, then turn it around - for 96000 XP). Just hold down the shift key, click once more on the ground here (or a doorway), and your party will run straight over to where you clicked. Get the Fiend's Tongue (and the Deva's Tears. A little experimentation reveals that it works something like a Mage's spell - you can only use it once, then you must rest before you can use it again. A bug, I suspect. Meir'am is standing on the east side of the Office of Vermin and Disease Control, SW region of the Hive, immediately you leave the Alley, the Lady appears and sends you into the Player's Maze (see section on this below). Then, head east, through the large gate, and down the stairs. Rathbone is standing outside Sharegrave's kip, in the SE of the Square. Hey, you get weird requests in fantasy RPGs all the time... He'll tell you of some strange comings and goings, and it is from this that you deduce how to get into the siege tower! Now go to the drawbridge to the east of the siege tower, and a portal will open up. Back to Alissa, and she'll fill you in a bit on this murder Keldor wants you to solve. Scroll of Abyssal Fury Outer Curst, Traitor's Gate tavern, Kitla Level: 9 / Wizard Range: 50 feet Duration: Instant Speed: 9 Area of effect: 1 creature Usable only by Mages Kitla gives you this scroll when you complete the quest for her part of the Key. You'll need many of her exotic items to complete quests. Karina is the woman in red garb standing in the middle of the indoor market, you get to stay there. Ditto. Only one of the mob will talk to you, the 'Angry Curst Citizen'. You can learn to converse with a Dabus for 500 XP. In the NE part of the maze, you'll find a pile of bones near an abandoned campfire. When you return to that person's inventory, all the items are now identified! You can also equip each of your Mages with an Identify scroll, but then only one item per day/per Mage can be identified. In the Galleria, one of the exhibits is a stone statue. He'll ask you to find this Decanter, in the Drowned Nations, deep within the Catacombs. Now examine all the wall panels, pushing in each one in turn. Then, speak to the Nameless Zombie, near where the Puzzled Skeleton is. He disappeared, yet she never saw anyone leave the premises. The entrance to the Mosaic Crypt is in the NW part of the Catacombs. Dexterity (DEX) is useful for thieving skills, but is also important as it lowers your Armor Class (AC), making you harder to hit in battle, and so forth. You can trade tales with Yves the Tale-Chaser (located in room at 5 o'clock on the map) for 500 XP a go. It turns out to be a Wish Scroll, and you can use it once to wish for any one of the following: Arcane Knowledge. The Practical one speaks to you first. You arrive outside the Fortress, alone. You wind up in the room where the 1st cannon is - only something different happened this time. 5. Find and return Vivian's 'personal scent' - 25000 XP and permanent +1 to CHR. But once you know how to employ him properly, you'll find him to be indispensable! Here's how you do it: suppose a group of Larval Worms, Trelons, or whatever are rushing at your party. There is a Puzzled Skeleton in the centre of the Dead Nations. Fell will recall tattoos that he had long since forgotten how to execute, and they will then be available for you to purchase. He'll employ him partly for a whopping 36000 XP, and he's pretty handy in a fight. Also in this corridor, you'll find a Reminder Note on one of the guards you've killed. They're worth 8000 XP each though. And secondly, you already have a way to get by the Dustmen, using Dhall's name. The sarcophagus here contains an Enchanted Hammer, plus 212 coppers. Kaleidoscopic Eye Clerk's Ward, Advocate's House, Iannis Invokes "Chromatic Orb" when held Special: Equipped +1 to All Saving Throws +1 to Save vs. The gith called An'izius you need to see first is located near the gate to Carceri, which is in the far NW of Inner Curst. She'll also train you as a Mage. Go speak to Siabha next. When you're ready, head through the portal (250000 XP). Another note: you can, and should return to Fell's often.
