Irobot 530 battery replacement

I've been struggling with Roomba charging 5 error for the last few days, but haven't found a solution yet. I tried several guidelines from various troubleshooting forums to solve this problem.They have provided much general information and no technical data that they might have obtained by measurements.I tried there provided suggestions like changing the battery pack, changing the power supply, resetting by pushing the spot and dock button for several seconds, plugging into the Roomba directly not thru home base, and also tried cleaning, pulling the metal thing under the battery for battery contact issue; but nothing has worked for me.This is the condition. When I plugged it into the transformer, charging faster light blinking started in a systematic way. But half an hour it had comes up "ERR5", or "Charging error 5", and the Roomba's troubleshooting light blinks 5 times.Don't kick out your Roomba or throw it across the home like a flying disc. Before you freak out don't worry, this can be fixed! There is enough data for you to identify the failed component.Therefore, those who would like to save time and don't want to give effort behind the faulty device, can purchase a robot vacuum for dog hair, this can be a great relief for a household with pets.Charging Errors1 Blink or Charging Error One1 Blink error message means the battery is not connected yet. You will probably need to unscrew the battery cover and check to see if anything is obstructing the battery contact points. Check to confirm the battery is placed correctly and the yellow battery pull tab has been removed. You might need to scrape the contacts with a knife to really get the crud/carbon off so the metal can make proper contact.2 Blinks or Charging Error TwoThis "charging error 2" means your Roomba has charging error and it may need to cool at least one hour. The Roomba will also need to fully charged in an AC environment to make sure it doesn't overheat once again.3 Blinks or Charging Error ThreeThis error says that the Roomba has a charging error, which can be solved by resetting it and recharging it.5 Blinks or Charging Error FiveThis "Roomba has a charging error" message can be solved in many ways. One way is to remove the pull tab fully from the vacuum and also by resetting the Roomba and charging it fully until the clean light turns green.6 Blinks or Charging Error SixWhen you see this charging error, it means that the Roomba battery has overheated. This can be solved by letting it charge in an AC environment or by letting it cool off for about one hour.7 Blinks or Charging Error SevenThe seventh charging error you will see says that the battery on the Roomba is not properly cooling off. If you let the vacuum charge in a cooler environment and let it cool off for an hour and it still overheats, it is likely faulty and will need to be replaced.8 Blinks or Charging Error EightThe Roomba is unable to create contact with the Lithium-Ion battery. The battery may be damaged or just need replacement. 9 Blinks or Charging Error NineSimilar to Charging Error 8, and the same solution the Lithium-Ion battery may need replacement.If none of the above works, and you're still getting Roomba error 5, then you should read this comprehensive analysis about the Roomba error codes.Final SentencesThis 'Roomba charging error 5' is a very common problem, that's why it is seen that in the month 1900 of people search in Google by typing this problem. On the other hand, the Roomba and the manufacturers continue to sell rechargeable batteries that are not good even though they are not aware of the problem.Save hours of searching online, questioning on Quora or wasting money on unnecessary repairs. We can help you resolve any Roomba troubleshooting issues. Who am I: I am a Home Improvement Specialist, Cleaning Expert, Product Reviewer. Although the holiday is officially over, retailers are still offering discounts on everything from MacBooks to Nespresso coffee machines. In terms of deals, one of our favorite deals right now comes courtesy of Amazon. The retailer is taking $200 off the MacBook Pro 14-inch (opens in new tab) and $200 off the MacBook Pro 16-inch (opens in new tab). These are the lowest prices we've ever seen for these base configurations, which are rarely on sale. Meanwhile, home furniture and mattresses are also seeing steep price cuts from retailers like Nectar and Home Depot. In fact, some of our favorite mattresses are up to $700 off. Make sure to follow our guide to the best Presidents Day mattress sales for more discounts. While we didn't see a PS5 drop on Presidents' Day, we did get confirmation that a Walmart PS5 restock will take place this Thursday, February 24. The PS5 restock will be for Walmart Plus members only. As with every retail holiday, there are plenty of fake deals out there you should avoid. So we're helping you pick the best Presidents Day sales still available by rounding up the best deals you can get today. However, in terms of sales, Presidents' Day sales tend to gravitate toward tech and home deals, whereas Valentine's Day sales offer discounts on flowers, and jewelry. Presidents' Day offers a wider selection of deals. TVs will see some of the biggest discounts on Presidents' Day. Last year, smart TVs dropped as low as $89, whereas OLED TVs dropped to $999. We're already seeing sub-$899 OLED TV deals, so we could see a $799 OLED TV, similar to sales we saw in November. Kitchen appliances — both large and small — will also enjoy steep price cuts. Expect to see deals on major brands like KitchenAid, Ninja, InstantPot, and Nespresso. We expect to see a wide range of furniture sales on Presidents' Day. However, Presidents Day mattress sales will play the biggest role come early February. Mattress manufacturers like Purple, Casper, Tempur-Pedic, and Nectar will offer their first major sales of the 2022. In terms of discounts, you can expect to see mattress sales that take from $100 to $500 off beds in our best mattress guide. Also, expect to see weighted blanket sales, bedding sales, and more. As the first major holiday of the year, Presidents Day sales tend to offer discounts on everything from 4K TVs to major kitchen appliances. Retailers like Amazon and Walmart also have various sales on furniture, bedding, and winter apparel. Look for discounts of up to 40% off on name brand apparel from the likes of Nike and Addidas. Amazon's Presidents Day sales are among the best. You can expect to see sitewide discounts with the biggest offerings on Amazon's own hardware. That means you'll see deals on Echo speakers, Fire tablets, and Fire TVs. The Amazon Daily Deals hub (opens in new tab) is a great starting point for sales. Loew's tends to offer a wide variety of Presidents' Day sales with discounts on smart home gear, top-rated tool brands, and large kitchen appliances. On the smart home side, Lowe's generally offers the same deals you'll find at Amazon.
